

The Navigation Pane

There is more than one way to display information in the Navigation Pane. You can experiment with the different options. We show three different views here which are used most often. You change the view of the Navigation Pane by clicking on the drop-down arrow at the top of the pane, and choosing certain combinations of options.

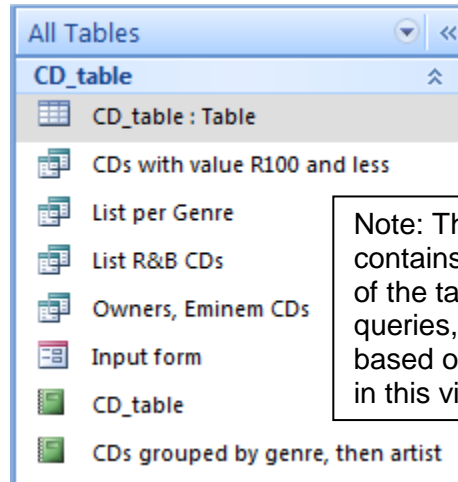

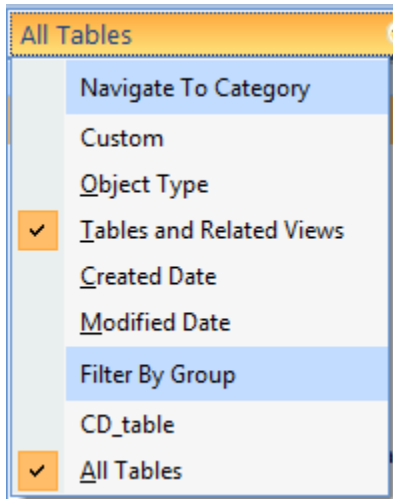

Example 1 (which have been used in this chapter until now).

Example 2

Example 3

Note: The database only contains one table. The name of the table as well as all queries, forms and reports based on this table is displayed in this view.
